British Consent to Holding Plebiscite in Two Countries

TROUBLES NOT OVER

Opposition To Certain Elements in Ireland Not Yet Dead.

London, Nov. 3.—A supreme effort to establish the ground work of an Irish peace settlement will be made here tomorrow when Sir James Craig, premier of Ulster and leader of the Ulster unionists, will confer with Premier Lloyd George. Sir James also will consult with Sir Edward Carson, former leader of the Ulster unionists, who has been acting as mediator between the British government and the north Ireland Tories.

It was denied in Downing street circles that the government has sent a formal note to the Ulster government at Belfast but it was admitted that there had been communication on the subject of a plebiscite in Tyrone and Fermanagh counties.

From Sinn Fein sources it is learned that the Sinn Fein have agreed to a settlement upon the following basis: 1—Dominion status for Ireland. 2—Ireland will own allegiance to the king on condition that the country is a unit and not divided in autonomy with coordinated parliaments in Dublin and Belfast.

3—Tyrone and Fermanagh counties and part of Donegal county shall be detached from Ulster province.

There is every ground for belief that the Sinn Fein have consented to give up its demand for an Irish republic on condition her other requests are granted. Sir James Craig will leave Belfast tonight arriving in London tomorrow morning. It is said that Lloyd George will make formal proposals tomorrow that a plebiscite be held in Fermanagh and Tyrone counties.

Although high hopes of an Irish settlement had been aroused by the British cabinet's unanimous note to the unionist government at Ulster proposing acceptance of the Sinn Fein's proposal for a plebiscite in the two counties, it was admitted today that obstacles may still develop.

It is characteristic of the troublesome Irish question that the pendulum of hopes and fears is moved by the slightest pressure. This accounts for the high waves of optimism which are followed by equally high waves of pessimism. Despite the pacific efforts of Sir Edward Carson former leader of the Ulster unionists and Premier Lloyd George the question arose today whether Sir James Craig, Unionist premier of Ulster could have overcome the opposition of the unionists "die hards" to the proposed compromise based on the detachment of the two counties in question from Ulster province.

REDUCTION MADE IN PUBLIC DEBT

Washington, Nov. 3.—A reduction of about $465,000,000 in the public debt during October was announced by the treasury yesterday. The total public debt on Sept. 30 stood at $23,924,108,125.00, while on Oct. 31 the total was $23,459,148,496.53 making a decrease for the period of $464,959,628.47.

The heavy decrease in the national debt during the past month, officials said, was accounted for by heavy redemption of government securities. Nearly $400,000,000 worth of treasury certificates were retired while the usual treasury financing was omitted on Oct. 15 and no new certificates issued until Nov. 1.

BANK BANDITS MURDER FARMER

Jonesboro, Ark., Nov. 3.—Marion Light, a farmer, was shot and killed and two other men were wounded during a gun battle in a bank at Alfalfa, Ark., 25 miles west of this city, between bandits and bank officials and employees, yesterday.

Light and the two men wounded were in the lobby of the bank and were struck by stray bullets.

The bandits, who, attempt to loot the bank was interrupted when Steven Beavers, farmer, a customer of the bank, stepped into the vault and opened fire, escaped in an automobile.

One of the robbers, who abandoned their automobile near a woods two and a half miles from Alfalfa, was reported to have been captured by a Sheriff's posse. The others eluded the posse and escaped.

McManes, who imposed a fine of $100 and costs in each case and ordered the four costly guns and two beagle hounds used by the hunters forfeited to the state.

The men paid their fines and were released. The hunting was done on Dr. Henninger's farm.

DISTRIBUTORS WILL OPPOSE UNIONS

New York, Nov. 3.—Despite acceptance by the 12,000 striking milk wagon drivers of Mayor Hylan's terms of negotiation, distributors served notice today of their intention of waging a finish fight for the "open shop."

Health Commissioner Copeland will hold separate conferences with both sides in the controversy today in another attempt to effect a conciliation. In view of the attitude of the distributors, however, little hope was held that the conference would bring results.

The New York milk conference heard notified Dr. Copeland that they could not accept arbitration.

OHIO COAL STRIKE STILL THREATENING IN STATE FIELDS

Operators and Leaders of Mine Workers Hold Meetings Thursday

Columbus, Nov. 3.—A coal strike menace continued today as operators of the southern Ohio fields and leaders of the Ohio united mine workers assembled here for conferences.

President Lee Hall, Vice President W. Roy, secretary treasury Savage and the six district presidents, constituting the Ohio united mine workers executive board, met at State headquarters in the Ruggery building. These officials are discussing proposed plans of action on the part of the miners in the event that Ohio coal operators comply with the decree of Federal Judge Anderson as Indianapolis that the "check off" system be abolished.

The coal operators are meeting at the offices of the Southern Ohio Coal Exchange, of which organization they are members. In advance of their meeting, operators intimated, that they will comply with Judge Anderson's decree.

Nation Emerges From Shadow of Threatened Rail Tie Up Only to Be Confronted by Situation no Less Serious Mine Workers Running Afoul of U. S. Courts

Indianapolis, Nov. 3.—Emerging from beneath the cloud of a threatened nation-wide railway strike into the sunshine of industrial peace for the brief span of a few short days, the nation today was plunged into the shadow of menace, scarcely less serious—the probability of a widespread tie up of coal production.

The threatened railroad strike just passed and the general walkout of miners which looms, however, are widely dissimilar.

In that case it was a battle over differences between employers and their employees. In this, it is declared, there are no differences between the miners and operators. It is a strike of miners against the decree of Federal Judge Anderson suspending the check off system and prohibiting further efforts to unionize the West Virginia coal field.

Just how broad in scope the impending mine tie up may grow could not be accurately foretold today.

That the miners are preparing for a finish fight, however, is indicated by the statement by one union official that they "will go to the end regardless of consequences."

On the other hand "if the miners think the federal court is a joke, they are badly mistaken"—to quote another man, not connected with the union but in close touch with the court.

No general strike order will be issued at international headquarters of the miners. That appeared certain today. But there is scarcely a man to quote one man in close touch with the coal crisis, "in the miners organization who will not understand the meaning" of the telegraphic orders sent by the international officers of the union to 17 district presidents, in which they were told that abrogation of any section of the existing miners-operators agreement constitutes violation of the contract and should be treated accordingly.

Lewis flatly declined to discuss the message today.

Reports early today gave no indication that the ranks of striking miners—25,000 in Indiana and some hundreds in Ohio and Illinois—had been swelled overnight.

Approximately 350,000 miners are listed in the 17 districts affected by Lewis' order. How many of them will join the army of strikers, depends it was said by union leaders today on action of operators in the several fields. Whether the strike spreads and the rapidity of its growth, hinges upon acceptance by the operators of Judge Anderson's decree, it was stated.

Just as rapidly as operators announce their readiness to abide by the court's decision will the miners lay down their tools, these leaders said. Operators of several states are yet to hold meetings at which their attitude will be decided upon.

Only four mines in Indiana were reported working today. Thirty thousand miners in the Indiana field are reported idle in protest against Judge Anderson's decision.

Union headquarters here is without advice as to the number that quit work but press dispatches indicate that 1,250 men in Ohio and 740 in Illinois are all that have thus far actually joined the Indiana miners in the "protest" movement, although strike of 45,000 Pennsylvania coal workers appeared imminent.

FEDERAL JUDGE FORBIDS MINERS TO USE SYSTEM

Judge A.B. Anderson

Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, of Indianapolis who ordered the issuance of an injunction directed at stopping efforts of the United Mine Workers of America from organizing the Williamson coal field in West Virginia. The court decided that the miners' efforts to unionize West Virginia were in furtherance of a conspiracy to shut off competition of the non-union mined coal. The injunction practically kills the so-called "check off" system by which operators collect miners' union dues.

The trial of the Rev. S. Douglas McDuffie, colored evangelist, who is charged with a serious offense in an indictment returned by the Grand Jury, was begun in Common Pleas Court, Thursday morning.

The jury sitting in the case is composed of L. W. Linton, Walter Stoops, Thomas McClelland, Sr., H. M. Snook, D. M. Kennon, Thomas H. Faulkner, Bryan Lynch, E. C. Rader, Ernest Bull, Allen Haines, Walton Spahr and J. S. Van Eaton.

SALES TAX MAY BE SWEEPED INTO PENDING BILL

Smoot's Plan Meets With Rising Tide of Approval Now.

HAS GOOD CHANCE

Opponents Declare Proposition While Gaining Will Not Carry.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The rising tide of approval that has set in, in favor of Senator Smoot's modified sales tax plan gave promise today of sweeping into the pending compromise tax bill, its supporters declared.

Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, said he thought the Smoot proposal for a manufacturers' sales tax of one per cent and a turn over tax of one per cent had a better chance of being adopted than at any time since it was first advanced.

Senator Penrose, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the senate finance committee in charge of the pending measure, declared that much would depend upon the outcome of the impending verbal battle over the Smoot plan in which Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, is to be its chief adversary.

Opponents of the plan on the Republican side whose number was disclosed to be 12 by a careful canvass made by Republican leaders, as compared with thirty pledged to vote for it, were counting much on Democratic opposition to aid them in preventing its adoption.

Democratic members of the senate finance committee stated that a canvass of the Democratic side had failed to reveal more than four or five of the minority who were favorable to the sales tax idea.

Its supporters, however, professed to find encouragement in the announcement by Senator Penrose that he would not oppose the Smoot plan, although he did not expect to vote for it and would insist upon "fair and impartial consideration" of it.

Its opponents, although conceding that the sales tax is steadily gaining ground, clung to their prediction that it would not command a majority vote, although they admitted that the vote on it would probably be close. Its supporters declared on the other hand that they only needed a few more votes to secure its adoption.

GERM CONTAINERS IMPROPERLY USED

Marion, O., Nov. 3.—H. L. French, a federal postal inspector, today began probing the alleged dispatch through the mails at the local post office of diphtheria germs in containers carelessly adjusted, it is charged. It is claimed that many of these containers became rusted because of carelessness on the part of physicians mailing them to the state board of health at Columbus, thereby endangering the lives of all the people handling them.

Inspector French says that his investigation so far has disclosed that lids on the containers have not been put on securely. This, he says is punishable by a fine not to exceed $5,000.

OFFICIALS ADMIT NO CLUE FOUND

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 3.—As the Scioto county grand jury meets today to probe the mysterious murder of John W. Newman and Louise Doyle, whose bodies were found last Friday afternoon in an abandoned house seven miles from the city, county officials and police admitted that they were without a tangible clue to the identity of the murderer.

Members of the Doyle and Newman families were questioned last night to learn if any member of either family had ever possessed a 32-calibre revolver, this being the weapon used in the double killing, but nothing was learned.

All thus far questioned as possible suspects have established alibis.

MINERS WILL WORK UNTIL PAY DAY

It was announced that the men would continue to work until their next pay day which is a week from this Saturday in some cases and the following Monday in other cases. The only men who will be affected are those employed at the mines where the "check off" system is abolished.

FIFTY THOUSAND ASKED IN DAMAGE SUIT BY WOMAN

Claiming negligence, on the part of the defendants, responsible for injuries she received when she stepped into a hole on Main street in Osborn, December 16, 1920, Mildred Dickerson, former stenographer at Wilbur Wright Aviation Field, near Osborn, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court here for $50,100 against the Village of Osborn and the Miami Conservancy District.

The petition was filed with Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam, Wednesday afternoon, by attorneys for Miss Dickerson, and seeks to collect damages for permanent injuries in the sum of $50,000 and $100 alleged doctor bills. The law firm of Miller & Finney of this city, Attorney Fred B. Johnson, of Indianapolis, Ind., represent the plaintiff in the action.

The plaintiff charges in her petition that while walking along Main street in Osborn, December 16 1920, she was attracted by the store window of H. R. Kendig, Osborn business man, on the north side of the street, and stepped to the window to look in. She charges that in doing so she fell into a hole or depression in the sidewalk in front of the building, striking her right side and the right side of her abdomen, thereby greatly injuring herself. The petition states that the street was dark, and that the only light was in the display window, which did not shine upon the depression but further out in the street, so that in looking in the window the plaintiff was blinded by the light and unable to see the opening.

The petition further charges that an iron pipe protruded out of the depression and the plaintiff struck this pipe and the side of the depression. The plaintiff at the time, the petition declares, was employed as a stenographer at Wilbur Wright field near Osborn, and by reason of the accident and injuries she sustained, was incapacitated for resuming her employment and has since been unable to resume her position. The petition states that the plaintiff immediately after the accident received medical aid at the hospital at Wilbur Wright Field, that for more than six weeks she was unable to rest or obtain her normal sleep, that for a number of weeks she suffered great physical pain, that the injury is permanent, that the plaintiff is now suffering and believes she will continue to suffer permanently from the injury, that

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

Mrs. Morris Owes Health to
Our Cod Liver and Iron
Tonic-Vinol

MRS. MARY MORRIS
Frederica, Del.—"I got into a very weak nervous run down condition so I was not fit to keep on with my housework—Vinol was recommended to me and it certainly has made me feel like a new woman. It built me up and made me feel stronger and better in every way."—Mrs. Mary Morris, Frederica, Del.

This is because Vinol is a combination of the three most successful tonics known to medicine, the medicinal tissue building elements of fresh cod livers—Iron and Beef Peptones and Glycerophosphates. Thus in a natural manner it increases the appetite, enriches the blood and creates strength for nervous, weak, run down people, old people and delicate children—your druggist returns your money if Vinol fails to benefit you. We agree to help you with Vinol or return your money.

her right side pains her, that pains continue in the right side of her abdomen, and that by reason of these facts she is a nervous wreck, is unable to perform manual labor or take a permanent position and that before the accident she was in good health and had a large earning power.

The petition charges the village of Osborn negligent in failing to properly light the streets and in permitting the depression to be on the street. The petition declares that the depression had existed for a long time before the accident and that the village knew or in the exercise of ordinary care on the part of officials, should have known of the depression.

The petition states further that the Miami Conservancy District owned the real estate on which the business place of H. R. Kendig was located as well as all other real estate in the village, including the streets and alleys and that the plaintiff was unable to determine where the property line commenced and whether the depression was on that portion within the property line or on the premises of the Miami Conservancy District. The petition declares further that the Miami Conservancy District was guilty of negligence in permitting the depression and pipe to be on its premises or in front of its premises and that it knew or should have known of the existence of the depression. Further it states that the plaintiff had to pay $100 doctor bill as a result of the injuries and the physical condition which is due to these injuries, she asks damages in the sum of $50,000 and the payment of the doctor bill.

SAYS REQUESTS NOT LIABLE FOR DEBTS OF BANK

That bequests left the village of South Charleston in the wills of Leon and Edwin Houston are not liable for debts against the Houston bank any more than any other money bequeathed for charitable or religious purposes is the statement of Stewart Tatum, attorney for the village of South Charleston.

Tatum's statement is answered to the memorandum filed in Clark county common pleas court several weeks ago by Judge F. M. Tazan, guardian of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Loveless, who are among the principal heirs to the Houston estate. The memorandum gave the opinion that the bequests of $20,000 left to the village by Leon and Edwin Houston for a library are a trust estate and are liable for the Houston bank debts as any of the other trust estates.

In his answer Tatum states that the trustees who have the money which was left to the village were not interested in the partnership under which the bank was operated.

OFFICIALS NETTLED OVER CRITICISM

Washington, Nov. 3.—Government officials having to deal with the arrangement for the armament conference, now but ten days away, were obviously perturbed and nettled today at the increasing criticism being voiced in congress and in the press against the "secrecy aspect" of the conference.

Newspaper correspondents who attempted to gain a definite indication today of just how "closed" or how "open" the conference is likely to be were met with the oft assertion that the press and public generally will be "pleasantly surprised" by the amount of openness in the forthcoming conference.

The American delegation it was stated, is prepared to urge upon the conference the "maximum amount of publicity consistent with the effectual working of the conference."

WONDERFUL FOR SICK STOMACHS

That's what every stomach sufferer says after taking one or two doses of Dr. Orth's Great Stomach Prescription.

Everyone who tries it willingly acknowledges that it does cure indigestion, and certainly banishes dyspepsia and other stomach distress almost instantly. Here's one letter that will give you an idea of just how good it is:

"I was sick for several years, went to hospital after getting no relief from Doctors, and many other remedies that I tried. Unable to work, and confined to the house, I was advised by a friend to try Doctor Orth's Stomach Remedy. I had no faith in anything any more, but I tried it and to my happy surprise it did me good. I am now perfectly well."

and for six months have been working every day in the blacksmith shop, eating everything I want and in perfect health. It is with pleasure that I recommend Dr. Orth's Stomach Remedy to all who suffer as I did. Wm. Starkey, Rock Creek, D. C. ## MARSHAL FOCH, THE NATION'S GUEST, IS AN APOSTLE OF PEACE.

Perhaps the American public has already found out that Marshal Foch is, indeed, the least conceited of men. What ought to be still better known is that if there was ever a preposterous legend, it is the tale which tried to depict him as a kind of embodiment of militarism. Just as he was the first to suggest a cessation of hostilities, as soon as a satisfactory peace could be made without a further sacrifice of human lives, his advice for the last two years has always been excited against a policy of adventures. The last instance was in the spring of this year, when there was a talk of occupying with French troops the coal district of the Ruhr in Germany. Instead of pushing the French Government, Marshal Foch was actually the first to suggest that the possible economic consequences of such a measure should first be carefully studied.

The main topic in the marshal's conversation—as could be vouchsafed by those who were with him on board ship—is how to make peace not only enduring, but real. "There is no peace as yet," he told me the other day, "for there is no confidence throughout the world." The only problem, in his opinion, is how to restore confidence, that is to make sure that no war will be possible either in Europe, or elsewhere. Being a man of deeds and not of words, he considers that this is a question of safeguards. He was delighted to read the recent report of the committee sent out by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to investigate the situation in Europe. He more particularly agreed with what they said about the necessity for France to be safe against a possible new German aggression.

Concerning the practical solutions of this problem he himself suggests there may, of course, be some difference of opinions. His principles are, however, as sound as his intentions. Much rather than to the Napoleonic tradition, he belongs to the type of great soldiers who, like the Carnot of the French Revolution, were also great citizens. He would indeed have been appreciated by George Washington.

THE JAPS ON THE JOB.

No one will have any right to complain of the activities of the vanguard of the Japanese delegation to the Disarmament Conference in Washington. These enterprising representatives of Japan have come to this country with a full realization, not only of the supreme importance of the questions to be discussed and of Japan's vital interest in a sound and permanent solution, but of the part which public opinion is going to play in the deliberations of the conference.

It was the public opinion of the world, more than any other single influence, which made the conference possible and forced the initiative. And it will be that same tremendous pressure that will carry to ultimate success the undertaking for the limitation of armaments and the establishment of a better understanding among the nations. It was with this in view that one of the spokesmen for the Japanese in Washington was moved to say that his colleagues "cannot well afford to go back home with hat in hand to confess the failure of their work and of the conference."

This remark, we are willing to believe, had a deeper significance than the natural desire of a small nation to "find the means of relief from the crushing burden of piled-up armament." It reflected the deepening conviction of the whole civilized world.

INTERESTING THINGS ABOUT CHICAGO.

The great Chicago fire in 1871 set back the city's constantly increasing prosperity, but recovery from this disaster was rapid. The solidity of this prosperity was demonstrated during the financial panic of 1873, when Chicago banks alone among those of the large cities of the country continued steadily to pay out current funds.

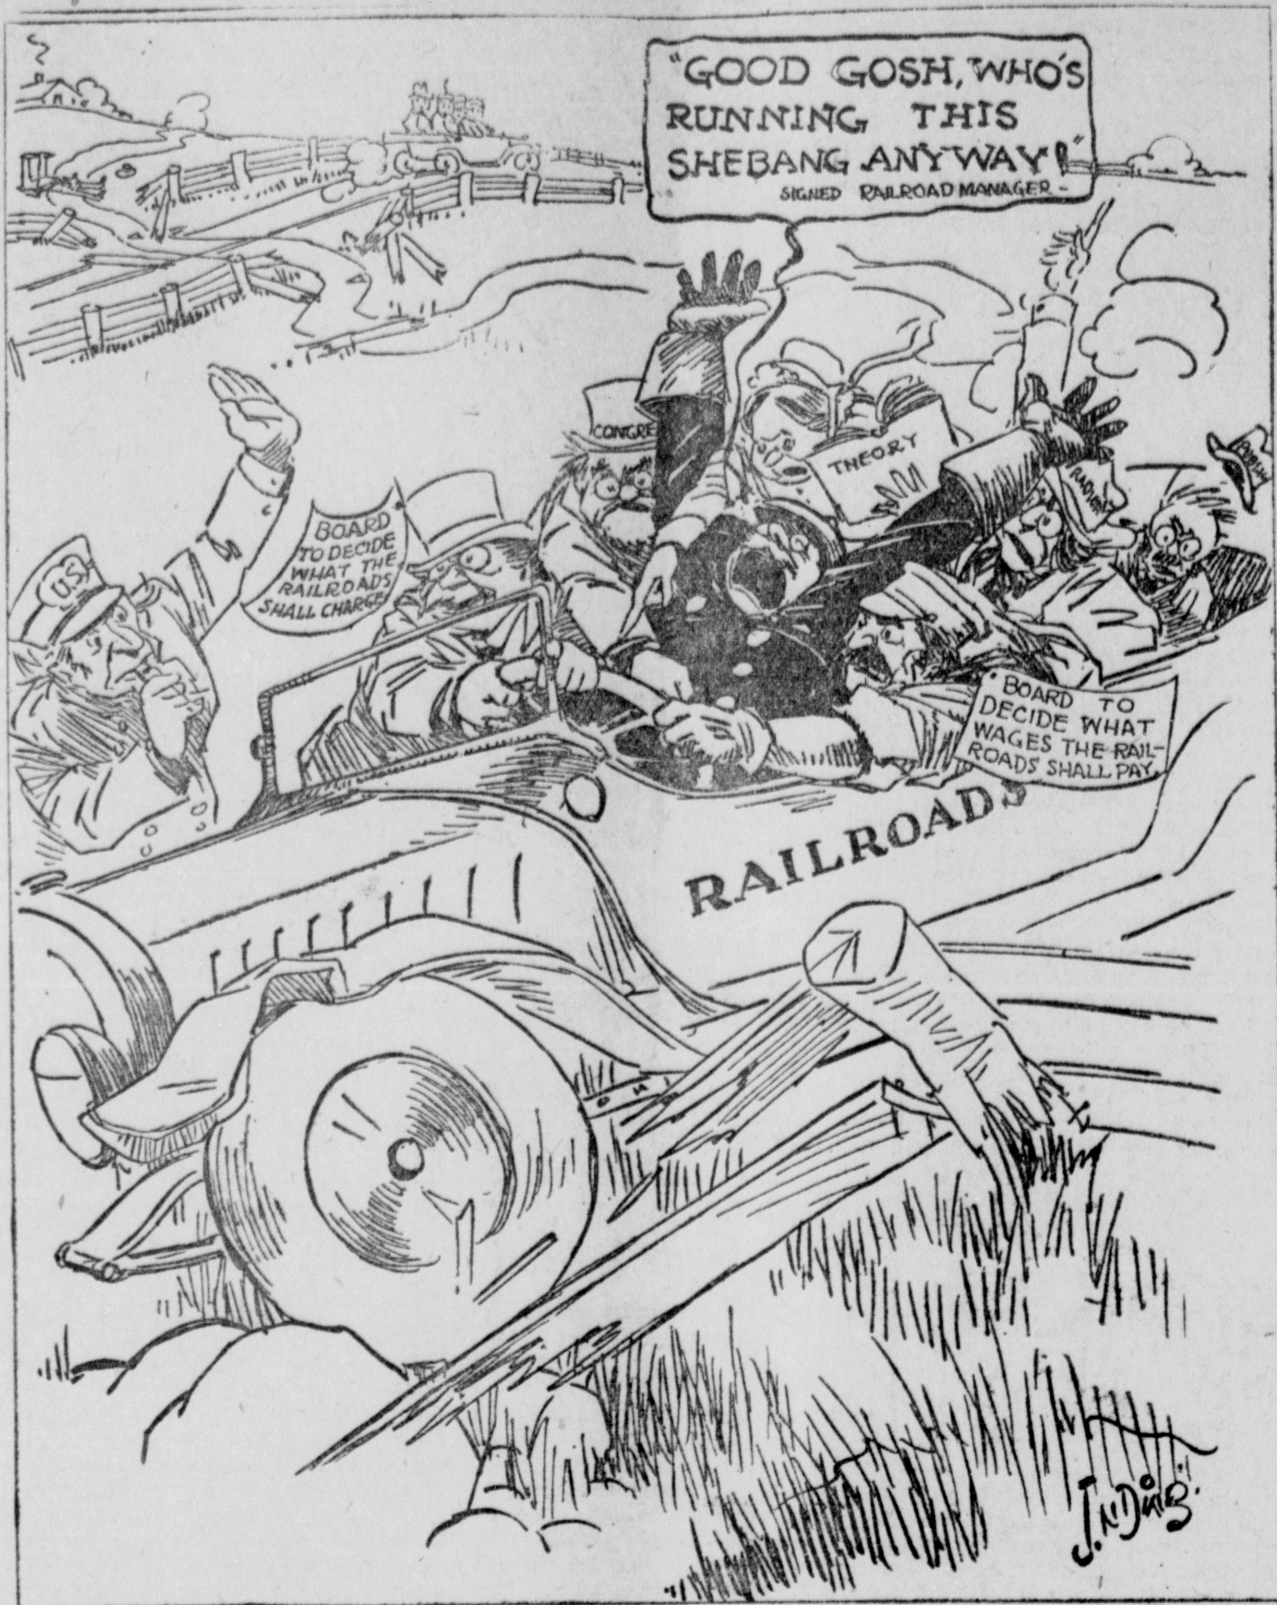

The precise cause of the great fire is not known, but it is popularly attributed to Mrs. O'Leary's cow, which according to tradition "kicked over the lamp" and started the flames. The fire spread over an area of 3 1-3 square miles, and destroyed 1,700 buildings and property valued at $196,000,000. Almost 100,000 people were made homeless, and 250 lost their lives. The relief contributions from the United States and abroad amounted to nearly $5,000,000, of which about $500,000 was contributed in England. The fire at least gave an opportunity to rebuild the old wooden city with brick and stone.

The later history has been marked on the one hand by serious labor troubles and on the other by the remarkable achievement of the World's Columbian Exposition (1893). The labor outbreaks included several strikes in the packing industry, the Haymarket Riot in 1886, and the Pullman Strike in 1894.

The Haymarket Riot grew out of a strike in the McCormick harvester works. Hostility against the employers had been fomented by a group of so-called International Anarchists and the struggle culminated at the Anarchist meeting at the Haymarket Square. When the authorities said that the speeches were too revolutionary to be allowed to continue and the police undertook to disperse the meeting, a bomb was thrown and seven policemen were killed. Seven anarchists were ultimately convicted as being conspirators and accomplices, and were condemned to death. Four were hanged, one committed suicide, two had their death sentences commuted to life imprisonment, and eight anarchists were sentenced to imprisonment for 15 years. In 1893 Gov. Altgeld pardoned those still in prison.

The leader of the Pullman strike, which began in the Pullman car works, was Eugene Debs (1855), who was the Socialist candidate for President in the election of 1920, although he was then in the penitentiary at Atlanta for violating the Espionage Act during the World War. The strike spread to the railways, and caused great disorder until President Cleveland dispatched federal troops to Chicago.

THE OWNER OF THE CAR PAUSES TO REMARK!

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

The prisoners at the Xenia City work house are on a strike and the wheels of the broom factory on Dayton Hill have ceased to go round. The trouble started this morning when a couple of prisoners made a vigorous kick against working without fire, the new heating plant having not yet been installed.

John Gardner messenger boy at the Pan Handle telegraph office resumed his duties today, after having been unable to work for three months by reason of a spell of fever.

The foundations have been laid this week for the fence which is to surround the new water tower at the O. S. and S. O. Home. The Steel frame work for the tower will arrive, today or tomorrow.

Mr. William Fay and Bride returned, yesterday, from Chicago, where they went on a wedding trip, and will spend a few days in this city, before going to their home in Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ball, who have been enjoying a wedding trip in the east, taking in the cities of Buffalo, New York, and Washington, returned to their home in this city, yesterday.

CARE OF THE HAIR

If the woman who wants to improve her hair will make herself a little routine and follow it out, she cannot fail to notice a remarkable difference in the health and beauty of her hair. For instance, here is a simple list of things to be done which will not take much time but which will improve the hair enormously.

First of all, give the hair the proper sort of shampoo. The first part of the treatment is to rub the scalp with hot crude oil, olive oil or sulphur ointment. Next day you do the shampoo braid the hair into many thin, tight braids, run your hand backwards over these to bring up the ends and clip off all the ends and a little from the bottom of the hair. This is an absolute cure for split ends. Then shampoo, using the soap three or four times, and rinsing out every particle of soap.

When possible, dry the hair in the sun and massage the scalp gently after the hair is dry. Use a hair tonic. The scalp should be shampooed once every three weeks with the oil treatment the day before if the hair is poor in quality or if there is dandruff. Every other shampoo time—that is every six weeks—braid the hair and clip the ends as I have suggested above.

At night, when you take your hair down, massage the scalp with the finger tips. If you need it use a hair tonic every other day. I will gladly send you my formula for a splendid tonic if you will write for it.

Seventeen—As your face is full and your nose short, you should aim to get length of lines in the coiffure. Do not bring the hair out much on the sides of the head as this will broaden the face, but mass as much of it as you can over the top of the head and snug it well in over the temples and down over the tops of the ears. This does not mean that you should not have the hair softened—by curling or fluffing it out, by keeping it loosely combed with a coarse toothed comb—as nothing is so harsh and ugly as hair tightly drawn over the scalp. Fluff the hair as usual, but snug it against the sides of head and keep it as loose as possible over the top. Arrange the coil at the back, well toward the top and in the form of an oval.

J. P.—A mucilage made from gum tragacanth or from quince seeds, will keep the hair in curl. The hair is made moist with this and the curls are formed and tied into shape while the hair dries; after which the hair is combed and the particles of dried gum, shaken from the curls. It is more easily handled making curls from short hair, than when the hair is longer.

SCHOOL POPULATION ABOUT 33,000,000

Washington, Nov. 3.—The "school population" of the United States is 23,250,870 the census bureau yesterday announced. Of this number, comprising citizens 5 to 20 years old, more than 21,739,000 were attending school between September 1919 and January, 1920 when the census was taken. Utah apparently is the most studious state, 73 per cent of her citizens eligible by age being registered in schools.

Massachusetts leads in the 7-to-13 year old group with 96.1 per cent, and Louisiana comes last with 75.9 per cent.

SHE KNOWS AFTER 20 YEARS

A cold, even when it has developed a hacking cough, difficult breathing, sleepless nights, raw throat and sore lungs—even then a cold yields quickly to Foley's Honey and Tar. Mrs. Milton Waite, Box 32, Azalia, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar for the past 20 years and find there is no other cough or croup remedy like it. You may use my name." It gets right at the seat of trouble. Children like it. Sayre & Hemphill.

THE STORM.

It is a dark and stormy night, the winds around my dwelling roar, and, as my trusty lyre I smite, the rain is beating at the door; the rain is pelted at the door, and owing to that circumstance my nephew's head is passing sore—the storm has kept him from a dance. The storm began, a gentle shower, from vagrant cloudbanks overhead; but it grows fiercer every hour, and now its noise would wake the dead; the tempest now might raise the dead, and every minute swells its power, and all my folks are seeing red, and they are savage, mad and dour. For all had dates they hate to miss, the movie show, or bridge, or tea; and on a beastly night like this they can't go forth, the sights to see; they can't go forth, sights to see, when darting lightnings round them hiss, and so they're sore, but as for me, a stormy night's a time of bliss. I have my good old easy chair, and storybook that's full of snap, so let the lightning rip and tear, and clouds unload their store of sap; let clouds discharge their valued sap, and I'll be happy in my chair, and read about the hero chap who shows us how to do and dare. A wild and stormy night for mine, when I've a goodly book to read, wherein the hero, brave and fine, pulls many a high and knightly deed; wherein he does the valiant deed, and makes the robber chief resign, and seeks the lady in her need, and dries her eyes of flowing brine.

The program rendered by this company includes singing with piano and harp accompaniment, also humorous and musical readings, and costume selections.

Their specialty is old-fashioned songs in costume with minstrel harp accompaniment. The minstrel harp was made especially popular a few years ago in the larger cities through its use by three English girls, the Fuller Sisters, in folk songs.

The harp used by this company is often referred to as the Irish Harp, but is properly called the Minstrel harp. It was first used by Scottish minstrels and also by the bards of Scotland in connection with their recitals of the story of their clans and of battle scenes.

CITIZENS TO BUILD COMMUNITY HOUSE NEXT SATURDAY

Citizens of the village of Medway, anxious to have a community house, are going to get one in the old-fashioned way.

Saturday, citizens of the village and community, armed with saws and hammers, will start to work on plans already prepared and hope to have most of the work completed within a day.

Fifty men have volunteered and 12 teams have been offered for the work, and will be on hand, early Saturday morning, to begin work. Many others are also expected to take part in the erection of the building.

A division of the work will be made to facilitate the construction labor. One gang will excavate for the basement; another will dig the foundation walls; some will shovel the dirt away, others will haul gravel for the street and still others will mix and pour cement for the foundation walls.

The ladies' aid society will furnish the workers with a chicken dinner at noon and every citizen has been invited to come and bring a shovel and take part in the construction of the building, which will be postponed until Monday in case of rain.

Howard Styer, Harry Kline, Harry Keschke, Harry Walshaw and Edward Clark compose the committee in charge.

Famous Author Now an Inventor.

Do you remember when Frederic Van Rensselaer Day was your favorite author? You may not have known him by that name, but his famous series, "Nick Carter," was, a decade and a half ago, the popular reading matter "eaten up," at that time. Mr. Day is the inventor of a bullet-proof glass, which has been adopted by practically every bank throughout the country. An antique of Senator Knute Nelson will appear in to-morrow's issue.

MEXICAN LABOR THREATENS TROUBLE

Mexico City, Nov. 3.—Labor leaders today threatened to attempt to bring about a general strike to compel Government action in behalf of the working class, particularly the unemployed. Ten thousand laborers at Puebla attended a mass meeting and voted a favor of a national strike.

There is much unrest in the Tampico oil fields as the result of unemployment and the continued discharge of workers by foreign oil companies.

It is estimated that there are 50,000 workers idle in the southern states. The government plans new highway construction and harbor improvements to give work to thousands of idle men during the winter.

MUCH STRONGER THAN ORDINARY MENTHOL PREPARATIONS

Nash's Salve Relieves Colds When Imitations Fail.

The healing and curative powers of Nash's Salve are the results of absolute purity and unusual strength of the principal ingredients. Imitators, seeking larger profit, usually rob their product of its efficacy in an endeavor to save on the cost.

When you go to your druggist, ask for Nash's "that stronger kind." It will give relief when so-called "same as" preparations fail.

To rid yourself of a cold, and thereby avoid such things as grippe and possibly pneumonia, apply the salve up each nostril with finger. For bad colds rub liberally on throat and chest.

The importance of getting the genuine Nash's Salve cannot be overestimated. Similar menthol preparations may seem to be the same, but results are not always the same. Nash's is only 50 cents a bottle. It will pay you to ask for it by name. Sold by all druggists.

COURT NEWS

WANTS INJUNCTION AND RELIEF

W. J. Baker, of Yellow Springs, as agent for the Elizabeth Baker heirs, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Harley Wilt, George Levans and H. G. Stevens, asking the Court for a temporary restraining order, injunction and equitable relief.

The plaintiff claims in his petition that November 1, 1921, he secured a judgment against George Levans for $202.40 and had an execution and attachment issued, but that Levans in violation of the court order sold eight tons of hay and 300 bushels of corn, the corn being still in the field and not husked to Harley Wilt and H. G. Stevens. The petition declares that unless restrained the purchasers will remove the hay and corn from one farm, causing the plaintiff irreparable damage, as a money judgment cannot be recovered against the defendant George Levans, as he has sold all of his property and put the money beyond the reach of his creditors. The court allowed a temporary restraining order. F. L. Johnson is attorney for the plaintiff.

DEFENDANT IN TWO NEW SUITS

The Wickensham Hardware Company of Jameson is plaintiff in two suits filed with Clerk of Courts Elam, naming J. A. Johnson as defendant. The amount still due on the note is $171.90 with six per cent interest. The second asks for a judgment in full on a promissory note executed by the defendant, March 1, 1918 for $733.85, and bearing six per cent interest, no endorsements, the amount now being $909.85, with six per cent interest from November 1.

CENTRAL HIGH WILL MEET MIAMISBURG FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Coach Jerry Katherman, of the Central high school grid, campaigners, is tuning up his pigskin machine for the clash with Miamisburg high at Miamisburg, Friday afternoon.

As yet not a discordant note has been sounded by Captain McCallister and his followers in six starts, and it is the ambition of coach and team to finish the second half of the schedule with as much success as has attended their efforts so far.

"Miamisburg defeated West Alexandria by a big score, but that does not worry me a bit," says Coach Katherman. "When our boys played West Alex they were decidedly off form and put up a weird exhibition. If they had played against West Alex like they did against Greenfield, they would have swamped them. Therefore the comparison of scores does not place our team in a bad light and if the boys play the game they are capable of, we should win."

The game at Miamisburg, Friday afternoon, will be the first combat away from the home ballfield since the mud-fractions at Troy, the West Alexandria, Hillsboro and Greenfield, since that time. The local mentor will take a big squad with him to Miamisburg with him.

COUNTY W. C. T. U. HOLDS SESSION

The principal campaign topics, "Child Welfare," "Christian Citizenship," "Evangelistic Work" and "Social Morality," were discussed by the County Executives of the W. C. T. U. at the all-day meeting held at the home of Mrs. Walter Dean, Wednesday.

Mrs. Carrie L. Platter, county president presided at the morning session. The following executives of the organization took part in the discussions: Mrs. Platter, Mrs. William McCall, Mrs. Charles Tindall, Miss Mattie Smith, Mrs. W. O. Custis and Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass.

Luncheon was served the company at noon. Miss Mattie Smith, vice-president, presided in the afternoon.

Work in the anti-narcotic action is being planned by the League, in connection with the other departments of the organizations work. Seven thousand essays have been written by the school children of Ohio, upon the subject, and active work in assisting the law in doing away with narcotics will be taken up by the W. C. T. U. League.

In connection with the Child Welfare work, each union in the county has been asked to complete a layette for children in which the organization is interested. Each member of the League will become a "big sister" to some child and will work in its interest.

The completion of the work of placing the Ten Commandments in the public schools is being made, and a committee was appointed at the meeting Wednesday to look after this matter. Mrs. W. R. McChesney of Cedarville, was appointed superintendent of the work of placing the Bible as a text book in the schools.

The organization took action by the members, commending Marshal Foch, in his observance of the spirit of prohibition law, while in the United States.

Dr. Edgar McDill, District Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was among the 30 members present at the meeting.

Moundsville, W. Va.—"I had taken doctor's medicine for nearly two years because my periods were irregular, came every two weeks, and I would suffer with bearing-down pains. A lady told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how much good it had done her daughter, so I took it and now I am regular every month and have no pain at all. I recommend your medicine to everyone and you may publish my testimonial, hoping that the Vegetable Compound does some other girl the good it has done me."—Mrs. GEORGE TEGARDEN, 915 Third Street, Moundsville, W. Va.

How many young girls suffer as Mrs. Tegarden did and do not know where to turn for advice or help. They often are obliged to earn their living by toiling day in and day out no matter how hard the pain they have to bear. Every girl who suffers in this way should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if she does not get prompt relief write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts, about her health. Such letters are held in strict confidence.

BEGINNING LATE

Dear Mr. Evans:

I am a man of thirty-eight and have taken up golf the first time this year. I am ambitious to become a really good player. What chance is there for a man starting at my age to break into the 70s. (George B.)

The foregoing letter interests me particularly because it is representative of a number that have come in to me from readers this season. I think a reply to this letter will be interesting to all golfers, for there are many men of my correspondent's age ambitious to play golf well and who are desirous of enjoying the thrills that come from playing golf well. I know of no better way to answer my correspondent than by telling the story of Walter Travis.

Walter J. Travis was born in Victoria, Australia, January 10, 1862. He did not begin to play golf until he was about 35, a circumstance that should be a great encouragement to other golfers who began late in life. He advanced rapidly to the very top of the game, winning the National Championship three times—1900, 1901 and 1903. He has never won the American Open, but he tried for second place one year, and until that time no amateur had been within 25 strokes of the leader. There is one achievement of Walter J. Travis, however, that stands out above all others, and that is winning the British Championship in 1904. It was a memorable victory, unique in the history of the game and not likely to be duplicated soon. But should it be, it can never mean what it did before the war. Those were great days at Sandwich, when the little American was playing the flower of English golf.

Mr. Travis is a small slightly built man, and his individual dress, and certain mannerisms made him a very easily recognizable and picturesque figure on our links. Mr. Travis has written much on golf, and he is one of the greatest authorities on rule in the country. His theory of the game was unusual and simple. He believed that if one was taught down the course and could putt victory was sure, and it proved to be so in his case. He was wonderful in his approaches and putts and I do not suppose that any one will ever equal him. He did much to popularize golf in this country, and the sport owes much to him. He has had a big share of golf honors, and his achievements will not be overlooked or forgotten.

I think that he has played almost every famous golfer in the world, and some time or other he has managed to beat every one of them except Robert Gardner. In both of their two encounters Bob was victor. I have played Mr. Travis just twice. Once at Glenview, when I went down before the marvelous putting, and again in the National Championship at Garden City when I won. I was paired with him in qualification round in the National Championship at Chicago Golf in 1909, and was so proud of the honor, and so nervous in consequence that I missed my third shot completely, going to the first hole and it ran into the cup, but managed to draw enough inspiration to win low medal.

The first time I ever spoke to him was in 1905 at Glen View when I was a small boy and he was the most famous golfer in the country. I elbowed my way through the gallery and

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—puffy eyes—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

said: "May I have the honor of shaking hands with you, Mr. Travis?" My brother, a few years older was deeply shocked at my presumption, but Mr. Travis kindly and gravely permitted the familiarity.

Walter Travis' career should be an inspiration to every man taking up golf a little late. Any man with the determination to become a good golfer, willing to follow the advice of his professional, can, in a few seasons, play a good game. George M.—has by no means waited too long. He can break into the 70s if he will.

BOOZE POURED INTO SEWER BY LOCAL OFFICIALS IN XENIA

Members of the W. C. T. U., the Greene County Law Enforcement League, the Anti-Saloon League and innocent bystanders, participated in the obsequies for a large quantity of corn whiskey, home-made wine and home brew, that ended its career in a man-hole at Market and Whitman streets, Wednesday afternoon.

The sheriff and deputies, officiated at the last rites and bade farewell to the "hooch" as it gurgled into the sewer. The booze represented the "evidence" confiscated by the sheriff and deputies in raids on illicit stills and liquor caches over the county during the past few months, and which was kept at the county jail until its period of usefulness had ended.

Included in the liquor that was poured into the sewer was a half barrel of wine, another barrel containing 12 gallons of wine, 25 gallons of corn whiskey and about 60 bottles of home brew. Six or seven gallons of the different brands were tested by the officials before the booze was destroyed and the result showed the quality to be from 46 to 60 per cent alcohol.

Twenty-four members of the Greene County Women's Christian Temperance Union who had been holding an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Dean were called upon to witness the destruction ceremonies. Mrs. S. Ervin and Mrs. William Bull assisted in the ceremonies. The Rev. Edgar MacDill, Cincinnati, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and J. Robert Bryson, representing the Greene County Law Enforcement League, were also in attendance at the passing of the confiscated "hooch," besides lay bystanders who were attracted by the odd sight of the smell and who anticipated a wild night for the sewer rats.

J. R. MORGAN DIES WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Word was received by relatives in this city, Thursday of the death of Joseph R. Morgan, of Knoxville, Tennessee, former Xenian, who passed away Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock, following a general breakdown. He had been seriously ill for the past two months.

Mr. Morgan was the son of the late David J. and Roseanne Morgan, and was born at Ludlow, Ohio, December 29, 1859, the third of nine children. His marriage to Miss Elizabeth Daley of this city took place in 1891. To this union were born eight children, Florence, Ruth, George, Joseph, David, Harry, Wallace and Elizabeth, all of Knoxville, Tenn., with the exception of Miss Ruth Morgan, who makes her home with her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Swadener at Old Town, and is employed in the business office of the Chew Publishing Company, in this city.

Mrs. Morgan preceded her husband in death, in September, 1915. Four sisters and two brothers, also survive, Mrs. J. W. Swadener, of

"CLOWN" CONFESSES TO WIELDING GUN HALLWE'EN NIGHT

Cincinnati, Nov. 3.—W. R. Shewmaker, 31, yesterday confessed, according to police that he shot and killed Joseph Clark, 29, seriously wounded Robert Cahill, 22, and slightly wounded William P. Cahill, 24, who are brothers, on the street here Halloween night. Since the shooting the police had been looking for three men dressed as clowns, one of whom had done the shooting, Shewmaker who is a former man at a manufacturing plant said that he shot in self defense when he had been attacked by a crowd of men. L. E. Moore, 24, and Turner Hansley, 15, who it is said were the other two clowns, were also arrested.

LET BULBS BRIGHTEN YOUR WINTER DINING ROOM

Psychologists have proved that a sunshiny dining room is conducive to good digestion and general optimism at mealtime. The cheeriness that emanates from flowering plants is almost equally as necessary in the dining room as sunshine.

Many women have poor success with regular plants; and many others who do have success with in-door plants have tried forcing these plants with the result that now, at the beginning of winter, the plants are in need of a rest and refuse to bloom. Such women should resort to the planting of bulbs in rotation.

Of course, there is the question of expense to be considered in this plan. Good bulbs and enough of them so that about 3 bulbs can be planted every two weeks from now till January first, will cost several dollars. But to my mind, it is several dollars well spent. For for this sum one can have bright cheery flowers in the dining room from six weeks from now until February first—when our regular potted plants are ready to flower or when our Spring seeds are ready to be planted.

A good choice is: first Hyacinths (Holland and Roman); second, early Tulips; third, Narcissi (Van Sion, Horsfield, Empress, Trumpet Major and Paper White—the five best forcing varieties); fourth, Bermuda Lilies, more commonly known as Easter Lilies and catalogued as "L. Harisi."

I have named these in the order of their planting. For economy's sake plant three in the same pot. The bulbs may touch each other in the pot. They should not be pressed down in the dirt, but merely rest on top of it. The dirt should not be packed down around them. A little bone fertilizer may be mixed with a heavy variety of soil. After you have planted the bulbs, water them well just once and place the pot in a dark, cool place for six weeks; this is very important for the reason that it is necessary to give the roots a chance to grow before the flowering shoots come up. The pot should be well filled with roots before the shoots appear. The cellar is the place that most people put their pots after planting the bulbs in them.

After you have planted the bulbs, had best be thrown away. For although many women try to keep bulbs from year to year, it is almost a vain hope that they will flower again—and even when they do they are never satisfactory blooms.

TED AND JOAN DISCUSS PERSONALITY.

CHAPTER 80

"You have grown very lovely, Joan," Ted said as they stopped, breathless, after a waltz, Joan danced perfectly.

"You're not so bad either, Ted—not considering."

"Considering what?"

"Considering you are just one of a thousand like you, all put through the same mould."

"Is it as bad as that? Am I such a dub that I have no personality of my own?"

Now Joan was on familiar ground. As she once said to Martha Hardy, personality and kindred subjects were her long suit.

"You may have a little, but what you have hasn't been allowed to grow. One has to constantly express their personality, regardless of people, of conventionalities if they are to reach any height of expression. You are too conventional ever to have much personality."

"I'm sorry, Joan, yet do you know I'm rather strong for convention. I think it would be a pretty rotten world without it."

"How you talk! I never have been conventional, never did a thing in my life, that I can recall, because I was expected to do it—because it was the conventional thing."

"That's all right for you Joan. I don't know why you are so different from other girls when you do unconventional things, but you are! A fellow never would think of getting fresh with you because of anything you did and—"

"Oh, I don't know! But something has come over Mumsie, Ted, I am terribly worried about her."

"Is she ill? She looks the picture of health and young enough to be your sister."

"That's it! She's trying to be young again."

"I'll tell the world she won't have to try very hard. Look out or she'll run you a close race."

Joan turned away, and to his surprise would have no more to say to Ted. She pleaded a dislike to dance when he asked her then danced furiously with another young man. When her mother asked her why she had done so she refused to say, although she repeated the first part of her conversation with Ted willingly.

"He said he was strong for convention, Mumsie—that's his silly bringing up! He told me that the fellows never would think of getting fresh with me because of my unconventional ideas and actions, but that they did with other girls. The very idea of such a thing. Most of the girls I know are as unconventional as can be. Really much more so than I am."

"Have you seen much of them when in the company of young men?"

"No—not so very much."

"Then perhaps you are not capable to judge, and Ted is right."

"But suppose the fellows do get a little fresh once in a while, they don't mean anything. Not the right sort."

"But are all of them you met in such unconventional ways the right sort? You told me the other night that you and Martha allowed a man you never had seen before to walk home with you because you found him interesting; his ideas unusual. Isn't that giving a man an opportunity to 'get fresh' as Ted expresses it?"

"Mercy, mother! One would think you were born in the dark ages. Men don't get fresh because they haven't been presented according to the rules of some etiquette book."

This conversation took place while Margaret and Joan prepared for bed. Margaret had encouraged Joan to talk freely. Then she saw her yawn, and remarked:

"Go right to sleep, dear! You'll lose your beauty sleep as it is."

"All right, Mumsie! Tell Hannah to have waffles and syrup for breakfast."

Tomorrow—Margaret Gives a Party for Joan.
